

Beyond basics

Educating employees about benefits is a must to help them become smart healthcare consumers. Yet, it's particularly challenging for Human Resources when there's a seismic change like switching to a consumer-driven health plan. Resources can stretch thin, especially if budget cuts have thinned HR. Our seasoned team of benefits experts can be a valuable resource when you need it most. As an enhancement to Health Advocate's Core Advocacy service, our Enrollment Advocate service, available for an extra cost, can help your employees truly understand the details of all your plans—and how best to use them. We offer the right answers at the right time and ease the burden on HR.
