Envelope, please. A sure sign of summer: Ernst & Young L.L.P. has picked the local winners of its annual entrepreneur of the year awards. The accounting and consulting firm last week announced the following award recipient for the Greater Philadelphia region:

Michael J. Cardillo, President and CEO of Health Advocate Inc., a Plymouth Meeting, PA company that helps employers and their employees navigate the health insurance system, received the health-care services award.

All of the Greater Philadelphia regional winners are eligible for the national awards, which will be announced Nov. 12. Trivia alert: This is the 25th year for the entrepreneur of the year awards.
